

Aspire Girls of Puget Sound

A Social Group for Girls on the Autism Spectrum

Aspire Girls of the Puget Sound is a social group for girls with Autism Spectrum Disorder and a place for their parents to connect, and is run by the Washington Autism Alliance & Advocacy. Each week there will be an activity centered on the interests of the girls. Please let us know what your child is interested in so that we can make Aspire Girls of the Puget Sound fun for all!

Aspire Girls of the Puget Sound is run by our certified Volunteer BCBA, Jaymi Shull, Jaymi has provided clinical services to children for over ten years. Jaymi completed graduate degrees in School Psychology and Applied Behavior Analysis. Her passion for working with children and interest in developmental neuroscience led to an obsession over autism spectrum disorders. She completed two thesis in graduate school: The Evolution of Autism Spectrum Disorders and diagnostic differences between males and females on the spectrum. Jaymi moved to Washington from Oklahoma two years ago to start her own ABA practice: Shull Therapy & Consulting. The group will also be coordinated by Amy Huntley and Melody Savaria, who are the officials for the association of Washington Autism Alliance and Advocacy. Aspire Girls of the Puget Sound adheres to the rules and regulations of Washington Autism Alliance and Advocacy.
